In his guest lecture, Bohdan Tokarskyj will speak about the poetics and politics of Ukrainian Soviet resistance. He will focus on the Ukrainian Soviet dissent of the 1960s and 1970s: its origins, cultural production, and reverberations in today's defiant Ukraine.

Bohdan Tokarskyj is a literary scholar specialising in Ukrainian Studies. He completed his PhD at the University of Cambridge, worked as a Prisma Ukraina Fellow at the Forum Transregionale Studien in Berlin and as a URIS Fellow at the University of Basel. In 2021 Tokarskyj joined the University of Potsdam as a research associate within the “Europäische Zeiten/European Times” (EUTIM) project.

The guest lecture takes place in the context of the lecture “Schreiben als Protest. Widerstand, Dissidenz und Subversion in den slavischen Literaturen” (Contact: anna.hodel@unibas.ch)
